Women's Leadership Development Program
The Residential & Dining Enterprises (R&DE) Women’s Leadership Development Program (WLDP) at Stanford University is dedicated to advancing women leaders through personal and professional development.

“One of the highest callings of a great leader is to coach, mentor and develop others. The Women’s Leadership Summit originated out of my passion to inspire, educate, and support the talented people, regardless of gender, in our organization, and help them thrive in their professional roles”

Shirley J. Everett, Ed.D., MBA,
Senior Associate Vice Provost | Residential & Dining Enterprises
Senior Adviser to the Provost on Equity and Inclusion
Founder and Host, Women’s Leadership Development Program and Women’s Leadership Summit

Our Purpose

To encourage leaders through personal and professional development.

Our Mission

To provide regular access to leadership development focused on women leaders in order to enhance opportunities, engagement, and job satisfaction through personal and professional growth.

Women’s Leadership Development Program Council

The R&DE Women’s Leadership Development Program is run by the R&DE Women’s Leadership Development Program Council.

Role of the Council

- To utilize a council of diverse members to focus on needs, content and communication of the program, its purpose, and goals.
- To provide a calendar of webinars, classes, and resources available to all members of the management teams.
- To act as a steering committee for the program.
- To become ambassadors for the program, its goals, and its ability to impact the individuals, organization, and overall effectiveness.
- To provide open, honest, direct perspectives and points of view on needs and development that will support the success of women in R&DE.
• To review data as it relates to turnover, recruiting, engagement, and job satisfaction to help with focus and development of programs.
• To help establish development goals, content, calendar, and metrics for the program.

Events

We accomplish our mission through a variety of ongoing leadership development events:

Networking Breakfast Discussions
First Thursday, 9:00 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. via Zoom

Breaking Barriers
Third Tuesday of the month, 2:00 p.m. via Zoom

The 7-Habits Guided Journal Group
Thursdays at 8:30 a.m.

Competency Development Programs

The R&DE Women’s Leadership Development Program (WLDP) is based on the Core Competency Development Model.

This research-based competency model serves as a guide for individuals to identify and define development goals, “beginning with an end in mind.”

About the Core Competency Development Model
There are three main components of the Core Competency Development Model: Self, People, and Business. These overarching categories encompass 12 core competencies that differentiate among individuals at the emerging leader, emerging executive, executive, and c-suite stages of their career.
Developing Self

This component focuses on individual development through assessment, gap analysis, career map, and personal brand identification.

Developing People

Shifting the lens to focus on teams, this component emphasizes communication strategies to build high-performing teams, coaching and mentoring techniques, and skills on understanding the importance of crucial conversations.

Developing Business

Identify focused objectives around financial acumen, strategic thinking, and driving for results.
