

Stanford
FOOD INSTITUTE
Residential & Dining Enterprises
CONFERENCE 11.4.2019

David Iott

CULINARY EDUCATOR & TRAINING EXECUTIVE CHEF
R&DE STANFORD DINING

Chef David Iott joined Stanford University in 2004 and during his time, he has been involved in the development of many leading culinary initiatives on campus. Currently, he is the training executive chef and culinary educator at the R&DE Teaching Kitchen @ Stanford, which is home to a groundbreaking cooking education program.

In this role, David has developed curriculum and conducted cooking classes for more than 300 Stanford students in support of the academic mission of the University. Cardinal Cooks!, the quarterly culinary education program uses a hands-on cooking curriculum, healthy recipes and inspiring teaching style to help individuals become more confident in the kitchen.

Before Stanford, David worked with the Ritz Carlton hotel brand, moving up through the kitchen and spending time in many locations, including downtown Atlanta, Half Moon Bay and San Francisco.