CEO
BLUE OCEAN BARNS

Joan Salwen is a native of Iowa, where her family has raised sheep and steers for four generations. Earlier this year, she co-founded Blue Ocean Barns, which is bringing to market a natural cattle feed additive that not only slashes their methane emissions by 80%, but also boosts the cow's productivity.

Previously, Joan was a Fellow in the Distinguished Careers Institute at Stanford, the head of a college-prep girls' school in Atlanta and a managing partner at Accenture.
